DANIELS INVOLVED

Fight on Collectorship appointment of Watts and is favorable to Justice for the Senate. in North Carolina.

Another big political fight in North Carolina, in which Secretary of the Navy Daniels is involved, and which threatens to draw in the Administration itself, has broken out. Involved also is the question whether Senator Overman, chairman of the Rules Committee, and one of the veteran Democrats! of the Senate, shall succeed himself. E. J. Justice, of Greensboro, a prominent attorney and a leading progressive Democrat, is a candidate against Over-

A few days ago Justice visited Washington and called on President Wilson. Secretary Daniels, who is a North Carolinian, and deep in the politics of the State, took him to see the President. Justice objected vigorously to the candidate for collector of internal revenue in the western district of North Carolina who is favored by Senators Overman and Simmons. This candidate is A. D. Watts. Justice saw Secretary McAdoo also and advised him of the situation.

Watts is a prominent figure in North Carolina and the situation that has arisen with respect to his appointment is of much more than State importance. Progressive Democratic building.

newspapers in North Carolina are making an issue of it and are saying that if the Wilson Administration is going to appoint reactionary Democrats of the Watts type, then the progressivism of the Administration is a sham and a snare, a humbug and a delusion. On the other hand, it is not an easy matter for the Administration to turn down Watts, who has the endorsement of both Senators Simmons and Overman and is backed Senator Overman Also Mixed Up

Washington Association of Credit Men. It is stated that every bank in the city has to return checks overdrawing accounts.

The credit men will attempt to have Congress pass a law on this subject similar to that now in operation in Virginia, which is declared to be successful. The Virginia law allows the maker of the check two weeks in which to make good his overdraft. At the end of two weeks the signing of the check becomes a misdemeanor and is punishable as such.

Art Lovers Gather for Lydig Collection Sale

NEW YORK, April 2.—Art lovers and collectors from all parts of the country gathered in the American Art Galleries today to attend the sale of the effects in Mrs. Philip Lydig's "wonder house," on East Fifty-second street. There is no estimate available of the total value of the things Mrs. Lydig had collected, but all who have visited at the house have declared it the most drawing checks for larger amounts at the house have declared it the most than the signer of the check has on magnificently furnished house of its size deposit, is to be undertaken by the in the world.

The Lydig collection includes not only paintings of great value, but tapestries, vessels, bronzes, rugs, marbles and furniture, gathered by Mrs. Lydig during her many trips abroad.

The sale was forced by the long illness of the mistress of the house, who is now in a sanitarium at Rochester, Minn.

Firebugs Suspected

Residents of Ballston, Va., are won-dering today whether firebugs are op-erating in their vicinity. The home of G. H. Rice, on the Conroy farm, near that town, was destroyed by fiames yesterday, and the cause has not been ascertained. The loss was partly cov-ered by insurance.
